

MAHABE BIOGRAPHY

Mahabe consists of two like-minded friends who are currently based in Amsterdam. They live together, they eat together, but most of time they play records together. Over the years they've built up a decent collection of records which stretches out from techno to electro and from house to ghetto.

They also run a monthly radio show called 137 FM, where they play sets that represent their club sound as well as host listening sessions ranging from jazz, hiphop, raregroove and soundtracks. So expect the unexpected, but know that when they're packing their record bags for a gig, all that's on their minds is: "What would we like to hear when we want to dance?".
